Faculty Development Workshop for
Course & Clerkship Directors, Chief Residents, & Interested Faculty

Evaluating Student Performance: Can We Make It Fair?

Some of the practical issues to be covered in this session are:

- Evaluation - Grading - Assessment: What are the differences?
- Competence vs. Performance: What are we measuring?
- How can we make evaluation feedback more useful; that is, USED, by students?

Guest Consultant:

Louis N. Pangaro, M.D.

Professor and Vice-Chair, Educational Programs
Department of Medicine
Uniformed Services University
Bethesda, Maryland

Among his colleagues and students, Dr. Louis Pangaro is known as a teacher of all ages. His energetic, engaging teaching style has helped clinical departments improve faculty performance and clinical instruction, according to his co-workers. The RIME evaluation system he developed has been implemented in dozens of medical schools worldwide.
